Hil welcome to the first issue of Nikita's Boot.

MUSIC

So here we go with my first ever music review. Maybe you shouldn't know that, but I had no other ideas as to how I should start this here review. My next decision for this article was simple, the album to review had to be STAR by BELLY.

This is one of those albums that really has it all. Some moments verge on being heavy (but not grungy), and others swirl around meaningful nonsense that recall Syd Barrett. Overall I would say it's easier to mellow out to, but there is plenty of jumping to be done here too.

"Someone to Die For" opens STAR and it jumps around from there until it ends up at "Stay", which is by far the happiest sad song I have heard since R.E.M.'s "Good Advices". Of course you have great dance beats in "Gepetto", "Full Moon, Empty Heart", and the MTV hit "Feed the Tree", but where you'll find the masterpiece of the album is close to the end of the first side with "Slow Dog". It's stumbling guitar solos and jangly drum beats best sum up what singer/songwriter Tanya Donelly has done on this gem.

The talents displayed by Donelly, guitarist Thomas Gorman, and drummer Chris Gorman has shown that this is a group that has the potential to be a force in "the music revolution" for some time to come.

I tried to sound as professional as possible, but in case you didn't get what I was trying to say: I like this album pretty much.

How to Use a Condom

When penis is hard, squeeze air out of tip of the condom and place on head of penis.

Hold tip of condom and unroll completely.

Use only water-based lubricants on condoms. Oil-based lubricants like Vaseline, Crisco, hand lotion or massage oil make condoms break.

After cumming (ejaculation), hold base of condom and pull out. Never reuse a condom.

Hi there, it's me the guy who wrote the record article. Before I allow myself to ramble on, I just want to tell you that BELLY is on Slre RECORDS.

Now that that's done, we can chat for a while. You know, I just realized that I'm a much better typer than I thought I was. Do I ramble? I know I do, but I don't think I should be shot for that or anything. I know what I wanted to tell you, I have an assignment for you in the month of May. You are to find your favorite childhood coloring book, or buy a new one, and go outside on a nice day and spend that day coloring.

Did you ever wonder why kids seem so happy? It's because they color, so get busy, and when you are through, send it on in. Maybe we'll have a contest. Maybe not, when things get too competative I usually split.

Now then, it's time for you to know a little more about me. I'm left handed. There, with that out of the way, we can chat some more. If you think all this rambling is stupid, don't. Try it sometime, you can get a lot of good ideas. You also get a lot of stupid ideas, and some ideas that make you laugh out loud and people give you strange looks. That makes me laugh even harder, and hey, who among doesn't like to laugh?

I have a little brother named Johnny and a little sister named Emily. I don't get to see them much, but I sometimes talk to them on the phone. John is 4 and will go to Kindergarden next year.

Emily is only 2, but her birthday is this month. My birthday is in August.

Another good thing about rambling is you do not have to be too serious, this can be very theraputic. In rambling you don't always have to spell everything correctly either. One thing I will say pertaining to our world of politics is give the President a bit more of a chance than 100 days. He has to undo 12 years of shlt remember. That's enough politics, I think it's time for you to go outside and play on the swings. After all it's spring, the birds are back, the Brewers are losing again, you can't go anywhere on a rainy day without stepping on worms, and love is in the air, but hey, it never left.

PEACE TO THE WORLD. IT IS OURS.
